LITTLE CHANGE ON WALL STREET

The Process of Recovery From the Industrial Depression Sets in-Improvement in Mercantile Interests in the Northwest and Southwest. Grain Trade Is Fair-The General

Special Correspondence of the Intelligence New Youx, Jan. 27 .- The Wall street markets show little change from their late features. Transactions are light and the speculative movement is narrow: but the undertone of prices remains firm. When prices yield, there aro few sellers; nor do advances bring out any important amounts of stock. In brief, holders are not sellers at present brief, noters are not setters at present prices, and appear to be satisfied to hold on until conditions favor higher values. The feeling is very general that the depression of business has passed its climax, and the prevailing symptoms show that, both in the industries and in trade, the process of recovery has distinctly set in.

This turn of the tide is most conspicuous in the northwest and southwest.

This turn of the tide is most conspicuous in the northwest and southwest. In those sections, the mercantile interests show a distinct improvement, which expresses itself in the markets of this city in an increased number of buyers, as well as in an ability to buy larger parcels, and in better collections and fewer requests for extensions of payments. Unfortunately, on arriving tere, these interior buyers find still a discouraged feeling, much complaint and a lack of firmness in prices notwithstanding the extraordinary lowness of and a lack of firmness in prices notwith-standing the extraordinary lowness of the stocks of goods; and under those circumstances they deem it prudent to buy less than they really want, with consequent discouragement to our local merchants. A few days ago, a series of concessions were made in staple cotton goods, which, instead of encouraging sales, have frightened buyers and pro-duced a general check on business in that branch of trade. It would seem as though manufacturers and commission merchants have allowed their fears at though manufacturers and commission merchants have allowed their fears at the effects of tariff changes to get the better of their sober judgment, with the result of their overlooking the favorable points in the situation and alacing themselves at the mercy of customers, who, under such circumstances, buy much less than they really want. And yet the fact that the long idle factories are so generally resuming work implies that manufacturers are aware of the exhausted state of stocks and of the exhausted state of stocks and believe that the markets are prepared to take a fair amount of goods. As this to take a fair amount of goods. As this city is the headquarters for manufac city is the headquarters for manufac-turers as well as for distributors, it is not surprising that the dispirited feeling among the former should find expres-sion here more than elsewhere; and a little more experience is likely to con-vince producers that it does not pay to infect their customers with their own misgivings. When that point-is reached, there is likely to the a marked change. misgivings. When that point is reached, there is likely to be a marked change from the feeling and the volume of trade which exist at the moment.

there is likely to be a marked change from the feeling and the volume of trade which exist at the moment.

Mr. Philip D. Armour is quoted as saying, "It is time to begin to hedge on bear' views. Trade has picked up so much in the last ten days, I feel myself like hedging on the view of the situation I took a fortnight ago. There have been more signs of returning confidence this last week than I have seen for a long time. The general mercantile trade has very much more of the old-time look to it than I have seen formany a month." This is important testimony from a competent judge of affairs in the west; and the improvement to which Mr. Armour testifies cannot long fall to make its impression at the centre. What Mr. Armour testifies cannot long fall to make its impression at the centre. What Mr. Armour testifies cannot long fall to make its impression at the centre. shrewd efough to take New York at its word and profit by its underestimate of the situation. This change of feeling at the interior is producing an improved tone in the Granger securities, and an early recovery in the earnings of that group of railroads is looked for.

The action of Congress on the sugar duty has been a leading feature in the stock market. The vote in the committee of the whole in favor of making the article duty free naturally caused some article duty free naturally caused some selling of the trust stock, but the price was affected much less than might have was affected much less than might have been expected under the circumstances. There is an impression in some quarters that legislation on this article is influenced by speculation, and those whe entertain that view regard the vote as intended to afford an opportunity for covering previous "short" sales and also of buying for a rise on the prospect of subsequent action reversing the house vote and affording protection to the "trust." The way the stock acted under the vote seems to give some support to this eems to give some support to this

ne Famous Welsh Land Survey—Historic West Virginia Property in Litigation. ondence of the Intellig

PARKERSBURG, Jan. 28 .- In 1795 what is known as the famous Welsh land survey was made in the region now known as Upshur county, this state. These lands, like those watered by "every fountain that tinkled west of the Alleghanies," once belonged to France, and were visited just before this survey was made by Louis Philippe, the exiled king of the French, who hoped, though the lands then belonged to the United States, to save some of this vast tract to his prosperity on a private patent he was in possession of.
He failed in his conquest and the lands reverted to their rightful owners,
George Washington and Judee Welsh, Virginia. These lands had been surveyed by Washington himself a short time prior to the Braddock campaign, and some of his marks are still to be seen in the wilder parts of the survey.
In 1830 this survey was forfeited, and put upon the land books of Upshur in 1870. In 1871 the land was soid for taxes and purchased by Rich, Reynolds and Jackson, of Pennsylvania, to the amount of 100,000 acros.
All these lands are now in litigation, and on in the United States court here 'every fountain that tinkled west of amount of 100,000 acres.

All these lands are now in litigation, and on in the United States court here under a motion to dissolve an injunction formerly granted against Fell & Stranahan, lumber manufacturers, and the Bennett estate.

The title of the case is Jackson & Reynolds, claimants under the Welsh survey, vs. Fell & Stranahan and the Bennett estate. The attorneys in the case are Hon. John A. Hutchinson, of this city, for the plaintiffs; Judge John Brannou and Lewis Bennett, of Weston, for the Bennett estate, and G. M. Fleming, of Buckhannon, for Fell & Stranahan.

After the survey of 1795 and prior to ing of Buckhannon, for Fell & Stranahan.

After the survey of 1795 and prior to 1870, three-quarters of a century, there have been a large number of junior entries made on the land and over half of it is occupied by cleared farms and country villages and settlements. The Welsh claimants are now paying taxes on 20,000 acres of the survey. All or nearly all of the land is claimed by adverse titles, the cleared portion by possessions and the claimants under the Welsh title have numerous suits pending against the Alexander Lumber Company and others. The object of the motion now being agreed before Judgo Jackson is to allow the Alexander Lumber Company to continue the manufacture of lumber and the cutting of timber on the survey.

New Yout, Jan. 27.—The dry goods market is rather less neitre. If anything, but shows unimportant changes in the processor Stocks are generally small and with precessor generally small and with precessor center at all inclined to force goods on the market. Prints and printed abries rule quier, but show a good deal of steadiness while print cloths are unmistakably drm, with sales at 2 13-16 less 1 per cent. The jobbing trade is without noteworthy change in any respect,
